Truman Forces See Chances Good For His Program

Believe Victory On Rules Committee Change Forecasts Support

PRESIDENT TO MAKE ADDRESS WEDNESDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Administration leaders solidified their control in Congress today following Truman's smashing victory over the once-powerful House "coalition."

Key house and senate Democrats, encouraged by the results on the opening day of the 81st congress, hastened to whip into shape the membership of important committees.

The overwhelming defeat handed the once-formidable southern Democratic-Republican coalition increased the chances for enactment of the president's legislative program, including repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, civil rights legislation and broadened social security.

Seen As "Forerunner"

House Majority Leader McCormack (D) Mass., hailed the 275 to 142 vote by which the lower chamber agreed to liberalize its rules as the forerunner of a more "progressive way" in congress.

The president celebrated the victory, reminiscent of early New Deal days, by journeying to Capitol Hill to spend an hour with Rep. Rayburn (D) Tex., house leader; Vice President-elect Barkley of Kentucky and others in Rayburn's office.

Pa Newc Observes

Midnight oil will be burning in many homes about the area as the complicated problem of figuring out income tax return blanks is started in the next few days.

Removal of the Christmas tree at the Dry Goods store on East Washington street caused quite a bit of excitement on Monday afternoon. In the removal process a large window in the store was broken.

Workmen engaged in repairing the bridge located on the Mt. Jackson-Enon Valley road, will complete their task of pouring concrete for the abutment they are installing in a few days. Motorists are detouring via New Galilee to get to Enon from the south or to get to New Castle from the north of the work that is in progress.

Only one or two churches in the city are without the services of a pastor and very few in the county. It has been learned by Pa Newc. Generally a number of pulpits are vacant in the many churches at one time.

Christmas trees which graced the Public Square over the holiday season have been removed by workmen under the direction of Owen P. Fox, city forester. Other trees which were erected by the city crews are also taken down.

With the change of domestic air mail postage from five to six cents, the airmail stamp portion of the vending machine in the post office lobby has become obsolete until a six cent stamp is put in use. A five cent air mail and a one cent stamp have to be used now on air mail letters in the U. S.

Here's hoping that January weather doesn't turn out like it did last January. The month started out with fairly mild temperatures, like the being experienced now, but at the end of the first week, it started to snow a good bit, and just in case you don't remember, eight out of the last 16 days saw the mercury drop to below zero figures, with eleven above the highest on those chilly mornings.

Daily Weather Report

United States weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 9 a. m. today follow:

'Breach Of Faith' Is Charged To Russia

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS)—The United States, Britain and France accused Russia today of a "breach of faith" over Moscow's repudiation of a solemn pledge to return all German war prisoners by last Saturday.

The charge by the western powers was disclosed when a United States note to Russia was made public today.

The American note asserted that world opinion will condemn Russia's refusal to live up to the repatriation agreement signed by the council of foreign ministers in Moscow early in 1947.

Early Delivered
American, British and French notes, parallel in content, were delivered to the Russian foreign office yesterday.

The United States note declares that whereas the western allies have honored their agreement to repatriate German prisoners by the council of foreign ministers in Moscow early in 1947.

Legislature Is Called To Order In Harrisburg

Legislators Meet To Organize At Noon—Hear Governor Later This Afternoon

WILL THEN RECESS UNTIL JANUARY 17

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(INS)—House Majority Leader Charles H. Brunner said today at the opening of the General Assembly that he did not anticipate final adjournment until after May 1.

The prediction was based, he added, on the tremendous amount of work to be completed in line with recommendations from Gov. James H. Duff.

The 1949 session convened promptly at noon in conformance with the state's constitution. In the House, Chief Clerk William B. Habbyschaw was on the speaker's rostrum, a post he would hold until the 208 members elected a speaker.

Lt. Gov. Daniel B. Strickler presided over the Senate. Lawmakers were convened to organize for the 1949 session and to hear Gov. James H. Duff's administrative message for the biennium opening June 1.

Recess To January 17
After today's session, the assembly will recess until January 17 when the governor is expected to disclose his budget recommendations.

Two house members-elect whose certifications have been challenged will step aside during today's session and will not take their oaths. They are Benjamin S. Altshuler, Philadelphia Republican, and Andrew Kondrath, Berks county Democrat.

Altshuler's election is opposed by Democrats who claim he was not a resident of the third legislative district at the time of his election.

Daniels Dies In Electric Chair

Pays Extreme Penalty For Orgie Of Crime In Ohio Last Summer

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—(INS)—The body of Robert Muri Daniels, 24-year-old "mad-dog killer," was in the hands of his family today, ending one of the most sordid tales of drunkenness, lust and crime in midwest history.

The smirking Daniels who brazenly winked at newsreel men before the body of his partner, the bespectacled John Coulter West, scarcely was cold in the ground, was electrocuted last night in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus.

Government Of Egypt To Accept Order For Truce

CAIRO, Jan. 4.—(INS)—The Egyptian government reportedly decided today to accept the Security Council's latest Palestine truce order.

It gave no indication of when it will actually order its troops to cease fire.

Cairo dispatches said that Egyptian Foreign Minister Abaza Pasha has cabled acceptance of the order to Lake Success, and has demanded that sanctions be imposed on Israel for allegedly violating the truce.

Earlier, British sources reported that Israel agreed to refrain from invading Egypt after the U. S. State department cautioned it to respect Arab sovereignty.

President To Give Program On Wednesday

Completes Work On Message To Be Delivered To Congress Tomorrow

FORECAST MADE OF LIKELY DEMANDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS)—President Truman, triumphant in the administration's first test of power in the new Congress, completes work today on the sweeping program he will start placing before the legislators tomorrow.

Mr. Truman will deliver his state of the union report in person tomorrow to a Congress safely under administration control as a result of the smashing victory yesterday over the once-powerful House "coalition." In this and two later messages he is expected to ask:

Multi-billion dollar increases in corporation taxes and added levies on high-bracketed individual incomes, to counter-balance an anticipated deficit for the next fiscal year.

Universal Training
Swift enactment of a universal military training law to strengthen the nation's position in the "cold war" against world Communism.

Outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley law denounced by labor leaders who supported Mr. Truman in his astonishing upset election victory.

STATE BANK CALL

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(INS)—State Secretary of Banking Emergent D. Brumbaugh today issued a call for a report of the condition of all state banks as of December 31.

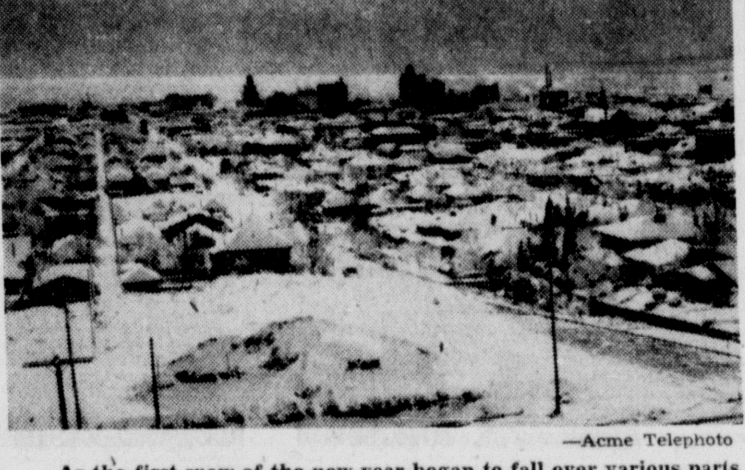

The report, which must be published, went to all state banks, bank and trust companies, trust companies, savings banks and private banks.

A twister killed two persons at El Dorado, Ark., (3), while a dozen buildings were flattened by another tornado at Vilas, Kan., (4). Peace Moves In China Stay In 'Feeler' Stage

NANKING, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Soviet Russia entered the picture today as a possible mediator in China's civil war, but peace moves remained still in the "feeler" stage.

A high ranking Nationalist leader was reported to have received a promise from the Soviet ambassador at Nanking that he would ask Moscow for instructions concerning efforts to start peace talks.

A possible communist reply to truce overtures by central government individuals and groups was awaited, but there was no immediate indication of any change in the avowed red intention to fight the war out.

Latest indications of the government's receptivity to peace were offered by Shao Lit-tze, high ranking Nationalist party member, and by the Shanghai city council.

The council of Shanghai—China's financial center and largest city—appealed to both Nationalists and Communists to end the war which has threatened to upset President Chiang Kai-shek's central government.

New Action In Palestine War

TEL AVIV, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Israeli troops opened new action on the coastal front in southern Palestine today and United Nations observers left for the Negev to investigate Egyptian charges concerning the use of poison gas.

Arab sources said that fighting now is under way on Egyptian territory south of the Palestine-Egyptian border station of Rafah.

Jewish mopping-up operations continued in the old battle areas of the Negev desert. An Israeli spokesman denied reports of fresh clashes along the Lebanese frontier.

Reports in Tel Aviv told of strong new Egyptian offensive action in the south.

Secretary To Sayre Called In Spy Probe

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Eunice Lincoln, former secretary to ex-Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre, was summoned today as a surprise witness before the New York Federal grand jury investigating Communist spying in Washington.

Miss Lincoln has been named as one of four persons who had legal access to papers taken from files in Sayre's office before the war. She previously has testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee, which emphasized at the time that she was not under any suspicion.

There was no announcement as to why Miss Lincoln was called by the jury today. Yesterday another Sayre secretary, Miss Anna Belle Newcomb, was before the jury for an hour and 15 minutes.

Tornado Levels Large Areas Of Arkansas Town

Warren, Ark., City Of 8,000 Is Left Debris And Rubble Littered

HUNT RUINS FOR VICTIMS-SURVIVORS BULLETIN

WARREN, Ark., Jan. 4.—(INS)—A tornado which hedged-hopped from northwestern Louisiana into Arkansas left at least 54 persons dead and 500 others injured in its debris-littered wake today.

Arkansas state highway police reported that the toll might even go higher as rescue squads probed the wreckage of severely stricken Warren, Ark., where 49 persons perished.

WARREN, Ark., Jan. 4.—(INS)—The death toll from a tornado which devastated part of Warren rose to 49 today as rescue workers dug through the rubble of the debris-littered city of 8,000.

Arkansas state police reported also that more than 500 persons were injured by the twister as it sliced a wide path through the residential section in the southern part of the lumbering town.

Doctors who streamed into the stricken city in answer to urgent calls for aid worked through the night.

Army and National Guard troops and Red Cross disaster crews also moved in to clear up the wreckage and prevent looting.

Battered 15 Minutes
The helpless city was battered for 15 minutes as the twister raced through the southern section and disrupted power communications, broke water mains and started fires which flared out of control for several hours.

Ambulances rushed scores of the injured to hospitals in Pine Bluff and Monticello, 18 and 40 miles distance, as medical forces worked on the scene with lanterns and torches.

Several survivors who had been through the 1947 tornado which (Continued on Page Two)

Deny Marines To Leave Port Of Tsingtao

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4.—(INS)—A report that preparations are under way to withdraw American marines from the north China port of Tsingtao was denied today by the U. S. public information office in Shanghai.

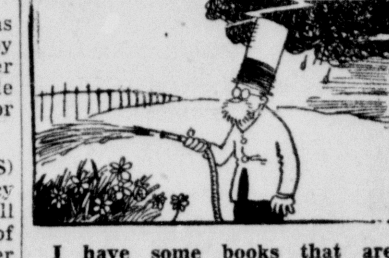

Similarly termed erroneous was a report that there is a plan to evacuate the American naval base at Tsingtao on 24 hours' notice because of communist military advances toward the city.

The report concerning preparations to withdraw U. S. marines from the north China port was believed based on stories brought to Shanghai from Tsingtao by civilian evacuees who had operated retail concessions for the navy.

As maid of honor, Miss Rosalie Petko, a classmate of the bride at the School of Nursing, Baltimore City Hospitals, wore a bustle back gown of orchid brocade satin styled similarly to the bride's. She wore a matching bonnet headress. Bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Fleischer, wore a gown the same style in pink satin with a matching bonnet. Both carried bouquets of pink carnations and yellow poms.

Joseph Hudak, of Bethlehem, was best man and ushers were Dennis C. Newhard, brother of the groom, and Noel Belleville, of Ellwood City.

Organ music was played by Mrs. Anna Moore Pyle. Selections included "Because", "Ave Maria", the Lord's Prayer and the traditional processional and recessional. Following the ceremony there was a reception for 75 guests in the church dining room.

Catholic Veterans Make Banquet Plans

Past Commanders' Banquet Scheduled At Cathedral For Saturday, April 23

New Castle Catholic Veterans opened their Monday evening meeting with a prayer with chaplain Rev. Fr. Albert M. Inteso in charge. Commander Edward DeCarbo was in charge, and plans were announced for the past commanders' banquet on Saturday, April 23, at the Cathedral. A dinner dance is being arranged and wives and friends of members are invited. A general chairman is to be selected, but Commander DeCarbo is in charge of the program. The entire post will participate.

Uniforms are being purchased for the officers and members. Tony O. Cooper was in charge of the groups of inductees who departed for service and the Catholic Veterans gave each service man a gift.

Fr. Inteso and Commander DeCarbo are in charge to aid any veteran who is passing in the city, and who is unavoidably delayed here for financial reasons.

The group's social affairs will resume this evening at 8:30 in the church hall. Later, the recruiter, Sgt. Willard Miller, located in this city, showed an interesting film, "True Glory," of the European campaigns.

A buffet lunch was served by Carl Cialella, Jr., James DeCarbo and C. F. Navarra.

January 17 is the next meeting date.

tomorrow to present his message on the state of the union to a joint session.

The administration victory, skillfully engineered by Rayburn, means that the way is clear for consideration of the president's program.

The house liberalized procedure by voting to take away from the potent rules committee power to "veto" key legislation by failure to report it to the floor for a vote.

Rules Committee Powerful

During the latter years of the Roosevelt administration and the first two years of the Truman regime, the house was unable to vote on major legislation because of the refusal of a southern Democratic-Republican coalition on the rules committee to "clear" it to the floor. Henceforth, whenever the rules committee fails to "clear" a bill, the chairman of the legislative committee which approved the measure will be privileged to call it up for a vote on the floor without further action by the rules committee. The change in house rules, sweeping in its possibilities, is the first in 14 years.

The extent of the administration victory was impressive. Forty-nine Republicans broke away from the usually-solid GOP ranks to vote for the change. They more than offset the 31 southern Democrats who opposed it.

With officers of the new congress elected on the opening day, the "Truman New Deal" was ready to get underway in carrying out the president's election pledges as soon as committee vacancies are filled. This is expected to take a week or 10 days during which the administration will whip into shape the bills it plans to send to Capitol Hill.

Rayburn Speaker

As anticipated, the house elected Rayburn as speaker and the senate chose Sen. McKellar (D) Tenn., as president pro tem. Rep. McCormack (D) Mass., became house majority leader, while Sen. Lucas (D) Ill., will assume a similar post in the senate Jan. 20 when Barkley becomes vice-president. Sen. Myers (D) Pa., will be majority whip. Rep. Martin (R) Mass., retiring house speaker, takes over the post of house minority leader.

Three selections were reported for vacancies on the house rules committee. Those apparently headed for the coveted posts were Reps. Madden (D) Ind., Keogh (D) N. Y., and Lyle (D) Tex. One more Democratic vacancy still remained to be filled.

Senate leaders were expected to maintain unchanged the ratio of seven Democrats and six Republicans on the senate foreign relations committee as a sign of the bi-partisan foreign policy. However, an increased Democratic representation was expected on other committees, possibly in the house also.

killed 30 persons near Pine Bluff said that last night's twister was the worst they had ever seen.

Police Chief W. F. Lyon said about half of the victims had been identified.

Lyon said that medical supplies reached Warren early today and that Red Cross disaster crews had taken over caring for the homeless and injured.

Hunt Survivors

Meanwhile, rescue workers picked their way through the debris in an effort to locate other possible victims or survivors of the storm. The tornado swirled into Warren last night after hedginghopping through Louisiana and lower Arkansas and destroyed approximately 300 homes.

It smashed through the Bradley Lumber company described as one of the South's finest plants, and then lashed the city's houses after hopping over the downtown district.

One of the city's residents, Russell Jeffers said he saw the tornado's black funnel roaring toward his home. He said he warned his wife and son, Harold, 16, to lie on the floor and related.

"In a few seconds we were tumbling and rolling head over heels. The house was lifted from right over our heads and disappeared." Jeffers and his son escaped with minor injuries but Mrs. Jeffers' leg was crushed and had to be amputated.

City officials sent out urgent calls for blood plasma and medical supplies to treat the injured after the tornado struck.

Damage Over Million

Lions estimated that the damage would amount to "more than a million dollars."

A heavy rain and hail, accompanied by freezing weather, hampered state and local officials and Red Cross disaster crews in their rescue work.

Only about 30 houses were left standing by the twister as it ripped through the city's residential section.

The scene was described by Arkansas State Trooper Otto Griffin as one of "stark terror and devastation."

Live wires cluttered the streets after the tornado struck and endangered pedestrians and rescue workers.

Confusion reigned in the city because of the virtually complete breakdown of all communications. Only one telephone circuit was available. It was restricted to emergency use.

The report of widespread fires sent one fire truck racing from Little Rock, some 90 miles to the north of Warren.

State Director Of Employment Bureau Reports On State's Policy Of Labor Transfer

The movement of labor from one Pennsylvania locality to another is being greatly facilitated by the Inter-Area Placement program of the State Employment Service, according to A. J. Caruso, executive director of the Bureau of Employment Compensation.

Mr. Caruso disclosed that during October, Pennsylvania employers hired 1,404 workers as the result of an inter-office exchange of information by which employers' needs were brought to the attention of workers for whom there were no suitable jobs in their own localities. The BEUC executive director explained that out of every 100 workers hired through the Inter-Area Placement program at least 88 were placed on jobs within the immediate areas from which employers normally recruit their workers.

Commute to Youngstown

He said, "These hires were made by direct negotiation between the local State Employment Service offices serving such areas. This procedure is in accord with our policy of giving the go-ahead signal to areas in the state where ease of transportation, similarity of industrial activity and customary commuting practices justify quick action by agreement between employers and Employment Service offices in the area involved."

Mr. Caruso explained that even when workers are referred to jobs outside the state these jobs usually are in the same labor market as the localities in which the workers live, and that crossing the state line under such circumstances is merely following normal commuting practice and does not represent a loss to the state's labor supply. He cited the flow of labor between Philadelphia and Camden, N. J.; and New Castle, Pa., and Youngstown, O., as examples, pointing out that the objective in such cases is to eliminate red-tape incident to filling job orders when Employment Service offices in Pennsylvania and adjacent states are involved.

Mr. Caruso stated that the Inter-

Area Placement program of the State Employment Service conserves the state's labor supply for Pennsylvania employers and effects more rapid placement of workers available for employment outside their own localities.

"An example of this," he said, "is to be found in the fact that this inter-area activity resulted in jobs for 887 agricultural workers during October. This number is in addition to the 2,259 agricultural workers for whom the Employment Service found jobs in their own localities. Finding jobs for the 887 not only helped agricultural employers during the harvest season but conserved this labor supply for industrial work in Pennsylvania during the winter. For without complete job information covering localities within commuting distance, many workers would be inclined to turn to more extensively advertised jobs in other states. And this, eventually—despite housing shortages—would lead to the movement of entire families, thereby causing a substantial drain on the state's labor supply."

Employers in need of further information regarding the advantages of the PSES Inter-Area Placement program are invited to get in touch with Mr. Gettings, manager of the New Castle office, telephone 5440.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

The Only Child

Most people have the idea that the only child is a spoiled child. This can happen, of course, and often does. But it isn't a foregone conclusion. As a matter of fact, a number of studies of only children show that many are very well-adjusted.

Like so many things, it all depends on parents. If you have but one child, you can see to it that he has a normal childhood even without brothers and sisters. There are always substitute brothers and sisters to be found: Neighborhood friends or cousins can be drawn into family life and make it possible for the only child to learn to share. He also can be helped to have experiences of being away from home so he does not become too dependent emotionally on father and mother. Visits to friends and relatives, summer-camp experiences and other out-of-home contacts are valuable.

So don't be worried as to what people say about only children. Whether a youngster becomes unduly self-centered or is outgoing, friendly and co-operative depends on the kinds of experiences and relationships he has. A little thought and planning on your part will help him grow up very normally.

King George Leaves Palace For Drive

LONDON, Jan. 4. — (INS) — Ailing King George VI left Buckingham Palace today for the first time since he was disclosed to be suffering from circulatory difficulties in his legs.

The monarch joined Queen Elizabeth in a drive through London before lunch. The trip was his first outside the palace since "Jv. 11."

It followed a report by his physicians that his ailment is responding to treatment, and that he will be able to go with his family to the royal estate at Sandringham Saturday.

The king and queen enjoyed a half-hour's drive in his majesty's black sedan. There were no spectators at Buckingham Palace's gate when they departed, and few London motorists were aware of the royal couple's outing.

The king was well-wrapped against the chill morning air, wearing a heavy muffler, an overcoat and a derby.

Retired Physician Made Inauguration Picture Of Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. — (INS) — A retired physician who made photography a hobby, then a career, was disclosed today to have taken the camera portrait chosen by President Truman as his official inauguration picture.

The photographer is gray-haired, mild-mannered Dr. Albert L. Miller, once a United States Public Health Service medic.

The picture, showing the President "in all the dignity of his office," was made in Miller's Washington home December 9 after secret service men had alerted the doctor to be ready for "a visit from a distinguished gentleman."

Only once before since Abraham Lincoln's day had a chief executive, while in office, gone to a photographer's studio for a sitting. The late President Calvin Coolidge visited the headquarters of a firm of commercial photographers. Lincoln went to the studio of Matthew Brady, renowned Civil War cameraman.

Miller guessed in advance the identity of his distinguished visitor, for he had made a series of portraits of several of Mr. Truman's intimates, including Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy and Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan.

So pleased were Leahy and Vaughan with their pictures that they requested the president to sit for the portrait which will be the frontpiece of the official program on Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

RUSSIA OUT IN THE COLD

Soviet attacks on the six-power plan for control of the Ruhr are so bitter that they constitute almost conclusive evidence that the arrangement is just and honest. Russia is not interested in an eventuation of that sort. What Moscow wants, when the disposal or government of territory is being decided, is the lion's share of the booty.

In this instance the Soviet is not a party to the agreement and so nobody receives a free hand-out. All of the six states will get not only protection against the possibility of an armed and militarized Germany but the benefits flowing from an open exchange of goods. That is what they have been seeking and what now seems to be in store for them.

A further Soviet complaint flows from the fact that distribution and sale of the products of the Ruhr, for the present at least, will be restricted to those western European nations which have made the agreement. This excludes Russian and her satellites, all of whom have been casting covetous eyes on the iron, coal and other commodities which that section of Germany can provide in such good measure.

While the new arrangement, which has been so long in the making, does not become effective until ratified by the interested governments, there is not likely to be serious opposition in any quarter. The Russians naturally will continue to fuss and fume but the remedy lies in their own hands. They can get into the picture and reap some of the harvest if they end the cold war and become decent neighbors. Under certain conditions the door will be opened to them.

MARSHALL NO MAGINOT

"We cannot go to sleep behind the Marshall plan the way we did behind the Maginot Line," Foreign Minister Paul Reynaud told the French National Assembly the other day. He is right.

The Marshall plan is not an American proposal to support Europeans in idleness. It is an arrangement for mutual aid and self-help in Europe. Nor is the Marshall plan a device to restore the status quo ante. If it fails to revolutionize Europe under the aegis of democracy and of something resembling justice, Russia will move in under a more sinister banner. The Marshall plan is no Maginot Line to stop her.

What Reynaud was arguing for, and what experts of the European Council for the Marshall plan hope is possible, is a general European work-and-sacrifice program along the lines of British "austerity". But it is doubtful whether France is united sufficiently for that. And most of her neighbors on the continent are so worn and discouraged that their people are likely to lend an ear to any demagogue who denounces an official program of consuming less and producing more.

Nevertheless, there must be radical changes if the Marshall plan is to help Europe to its feet again. It may be politically and psychologically impractical to demand increased sacrifices of the common people, but there can be sacrifices of personal ambitions, too. Many nations are addicted to seeking narrow national advantage even at the cost of greater gains through cooperation with other nations.

Though it is this attitude that has brought them to their present state, some of them are now foolish enough to hope that the Marshall plan will somehow relieve them of the need to give it up.

HARD TASK AT BONN

Far from finished is the task of the 65 German leaders who met at Bonn on September 1 to write a constitution for western Germany. After four months they have gone only far enough so that it is possible to get some idea of what the future state will be like.

That is not much progress. But, considering the circumstances, it is remarkable that this much has been accomplished. The convention is working under tremendous handicaps.

The Germans know, of course, that they cannot please the Russians no matter what sort of document they fashion. But they are constantly reminded that the Russians occupy eastern Germany, they are aware of the tense situation in Berlin, and they cannot help thinking what their fate might be if the Soviet should turn the cold war into a hot one.

Then, too, there is always the possibility that the cold war will be ended with a compromise, that the four major powers will get together on the German problem, and that their work will be in vain. If they assume that will not happen, they must still turn out a constitution that will be approved by Britain, France and the United States—nations that do not see eye to eye on all questions—and yet not offend the German people.

The assignment is difficult almost beyond comprehension. It is far harder than that which faced the American Constitutional Convention in 1787. The American states at least were free and capable of uniting under a stronger government if they wished. Even so, the delegates who began work at Philadelphia on May 25 did not adjourn until September 17.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

The anticipated creation of a southeast Asiatic bloc of nations as a compelling factor in world affairs moved out of the realm of speculation into near-reality today.

Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of the Indian dominion has announced that as a direct result of Holland's military action on the islands of the Dutch East Indies he has invited other Asian government leaders to meet with him in New Delhi.

Unanimous acceptance is a foregone conclusion.

The session will take place in the near future at the great white marble palace where Viscount Mountbatten and his British predecessors ruled so long and judiciously as viceroys when the sub-continent was a crown jewel in the empire and now is a "rough diamond" in the commonwealth.

Potentialities Great

Potentialities of Nehru's initiative in this regard are great indeed. He announced at the time of his accession to the premiership when Mohandas K. Gandhi was assassinated by his sole desire was to tread reverently in the tiny footsteps of his adored leader.

But he could not and would not deny that he had great ambitions for the little people of his race and for their eventual emancipation from all ownership by the western world.

Nehru was the first to speak in vigorous denunciation of Holland's Indonesian attack. He had no hesitancy in putting his name to a dispatch directly to International News Service from New Delhi warning that the invasion of Java and Sumatra was the spark of a brush-fire that would spread and multiply with the passing years.

And his delegate at the United Nations security council sessions in Paris was ruthless in the use of words such as "aggression, barbarity and cruelty" in denouncing the action that Holland felt compelled to take against communist infiltration.

Will Respond To Call

It is to be expected that all the resurgent nations of southeast Asia will respond to Nehru's call.

There is French Indo-China and Cochinchina, where native resistance is strong.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WHEN YOU MOVE TO A NEW TOWN

When the family move to another town or city or a different place in the same town or city, it may mean a big problem of adjustment to the child over two or three. Although the high school youth tends to choose his friends from wide areas, even he may not find it socially easy in the new school or community.

Normally, the child under ten or twelve finds his playmates in the block or nearby and these same playmates are his schoolmates.

His parents may seldom appreciate the worries, anxieties and emotional strain this child may have to endure. They rarely have such problems themselves. Indeed, they may not feel the need of associating with any of the other adults within several blocks. Anyway, they can take their good time selecting friends in the new neighborhood.

In New Home

But within a few minutes after arrival in the new home the child, five, eight or ten may meet outdoors several other children living a few doors away. Indeed, some of these children may, on the very first day, visit the newcomer in order to size him up.

Not many hours or days will have passed before the new child will know whether he is likely to be accepted or not by the other children. He may be drawn into a quarrel and have to fight for his rights almost immediately. If he wins at self-defense he will probably have little or no trouble from then on. But if he is timid and runs away and resorts to sticks and stones, he will be called the other children by ugly names, especially if he should cry, he will have a hard, hard road ahead, not only on the home playground but also at school, if old enough for school, and on the way to and from school.

Sympathetic Parents

This new child needs sympathetic parents who understand his social-adaptation problems. But they must be wise in their show of sympathy lest they hinder more than help him. If, for instance, his parents go out to aid him in a fight or if they scold the other children even when these children are the aggressors, if they criticize these children before their own child, these parents and their child are in for a lot of grief. And if the newly-arrived parents begin to complain to the parents who have lived in the neighborhood for some time the very worst can happen.

Fortunate is the child who has learned to get along with other children of his own age wherever he has been before. My bulletin, "Your Child and His Playmates," may be had in a stamped envelope, by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y.

New School District

Any school child moving to a new school district may also be faced with big problems in the classroom. Besides new schoolmates, there will be strange teachers, strange books, strange ways. What he is supposed to do in reading, spelling, arithmetic and other subjects are very different from what he was used to. He feels inferior.

Mother of the baby and young child: You can easily see how important it is for your child to have normal play with other children and to gain in other ways which will help him to get on as well as possible at school anywhere. My bulletin, "Parents Can Help Child Succeed at School," may be had in a stamped envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y.

There is Burma, whose independence status has not brought peace because dissident elements want complete elimination of continued British influence.

And there are the countless islands of Micronesia, many of them suddenly acquainted with what is meant by American democracy through their occupation or use as bases by United States troops during and after the Pacific war.

As a political figure, Nehru himself is a tremendous personality.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Christmas business was pretty bad this season, according to many reports I read and according to some of the storekeepers to whom I talked.

But, to and behold, some of the swankiest Fifth Avenue jewelers say that their business in very expensive gifts hit an all-time high.

Maybe it's just the same old story again about the rich getting richer and the poor poorer.

Maybe it takes much longer to feel the squeeze when your income goes from a million dollars a year to a measly nine hundred thousand and then when it goes from fifty dollars a week to fifty, which is exactly the same percentage.

Before I go into the jewelry report, I want to say that the most expensive gift the most expensive furrier in New York sold this year was a sable cape at $37,000.

Let that be a suggestion to you for next year, in case you can't decide what to give to your wife.

Here are a few trinkets that were bought as Christmas gifts (all prices include Christmas wrapping):

A $35,000 diamond necklace, set with 245 diamonds, and a $7,900 pair of earrings to match, set with 106 diamonds.

A $25,000 square-cut diamond ring.

A diamond necklace and clip combination at $16,500.

And in the cheaper brackets:

A pair of diamond earrings $2,875.

An emerald, diamond and 19 kt. gold watch bracelet, $1,725.

You will note that all the presents aforementioned were gifts for women.

I asked one of the top jewelers what was the most expensive man's gift he had sold.

He thought for a few moments.

"A pocket watch at $290."

After that answer I should write a little something about men and women, and how come men are so much more liberal than women.

But just before I wrote the last paragraph above, I looked over the Farmer's Almanac for 1949, which just came in, and in it I found a poem entitled "When Ma and Pa are Sick."

This is the way the first verse starts:

"When she is sick she pegs away;

"She's quite tough, not much to say.

"She goes right on a-doing things

"And sometimes laughs, 'er even sings.

"But 'Verse 2:

"When pa is sick he's scared to death,

"An' ma an' us just hold our breath.

"He crawls in bed, an' puffs an' grunts

"An' does all kinds of crazy stunts."

So, perhaps, after all there is a reason why we men give our wives expensive Christmas presents.

Sort of part-payment on a debt of gratitude we owe them.

Hints On Etiquette

Do not smoke in an elevator, especially if there are several people in it. The smoke from your cigar or cigaret may be annoying in such close quarters, and you also may accidentally burn a hole in a fellow passenger's clothing.

The fellow who is always waiting for something to turn up might as well start by turning up his sleeves.—Ulen, Minn., Union.

From Me To You

By MESEALL

Here is an idea that might help you get better results from the use of our classified ads . . . as if anyone needed better results . . . when you move your office or living quarters and have to dispose of your furniture, sell them where they stand at once. They are clean and alive whereas if they go into storage for a few months they will be dusty and dead . . . one seller told us that he has been using this policy for years . . . and that he figures that he gets from 25 to 40 percent more by following the idea.

Had the occasion to buy a new suit the other day . . . it's a nice experience . . . sort of builds up the morale and all that sort of stuff. While the tailor was fitting the suit, we suggested that we fill our pockets with the usual indispensable accessories, including handkerchiefs, matches, watch, cigarettes, pencil, fountain pen, billfold, pipe, tobacco, knife, keys, current bills and subpennas, diary, loose change and the Reader's Digest . . . "We take care of all those things in our calculations," he assured us.

No tailor does of course . . . why men's clothes look half as well as they do is a mystery to us . . . why a woman hesitates to upset a perfect balance by inserting so much as a tiny handkerchief in the belt of her dress . . . and man . . . while marketing, only the fear of ripping the garment keeps him from shoving a ham or a live turkey into an overcoat pocket.

Of course someone will say . . . what about those undersized suits cases the women carry. They need not worry about pockets. Maybe they have something there . . . we have seen pocketbooks or purses as the ladies prefer to call 'em, large enough to hold a seven-bit roaster.

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Chance For Constructive Leadership

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The world does change and now and then elections do count for something. That is the real meaning of what happened in the caucus of Democratic House members Saturday night.

No matter what occurs later in the session, the significance of that victory cannot be wiped out. It is hard to see how a handful of men can be continued in tyrannical power through the medium of that old-fashioned road block, the rules committee.

Even if the Republicans, with the aid of die-hard southerners, should checkmate the Democratic leadership, it can be only a temporary setback. The tyranny of the rules committee simply cannot be allowed in any government calling itself representative.

As Democrats poured out of the House chamber at the close of the four-hour meeting, there was a thrilling sense that they had seen the end of an era. It was not merely that the liberal-moderate wing of the party had triumphed. Perhaps even more important was the fact that the victory had come with the aid of so many southern votes.

Of the 100 to 110 southerners, only 48 votes against the amendment which permits the House by a majority vote to call up a measure if the Rules Committee bottles it up more than 21 days. Most of the House members from Texas, North Carolina and Florida voted for the reform. There was a split in the delegations from South Carolina and Georgia.

Chief Defenders

Chief defenders of the past were Rep. John Rankin of Mississippi and Rep. Eugene Cox of Georgia. Cox, as a member of the Rules Committee, is one of the handful whose votes have been equal to

Vote To Bind Members

For the first time in ten years, the caucus voted to bind the members present in accord with the action taken unless they had given their voters specific pledges to the contrary. Even last-ditch southerners will find it hard to buck that decision, particularly since many of these die-hards are already under the shadow of helping and encouraging the abortive Dixiecrat rebellion.

Almost as significant was the election to the House Ways and Means Committee of four administration Democrats pledged to the program for which President Truman campaigned. The four, along with two others who were restored to membership, will be part of a majority that can now set the tone of the new House, since the Democratic majority will make assignments for Democrats to all other committees.

Chairman Robert Doughton of Ways and Means, who has been accustomed to give orders, spoke for his own candidate, Rep. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia. In spite of Doughton's plea, Stanley ran fifth and failed to win a place.

May Block Basic Change

Finally, of course, the old coalition of Republicans plus southern Democrats may block any basic change. But those who take part in this deliberative obstructionism run a grave risk, it seems to me, of defeat when they come up for re-election next year. For the country has been aroused to an understanding of what the outdated, outmoded rules of Congress can mean in relation to the practical necessities of housing, education, medical care.

For years the oligarchy of the rules committee has been supreme and supremely indifferent. Senator Robert A. Taft could get his own housing bill through the Senate. But all his pleading did not move the three or four Republicans who sat beside that toll gate and listened to the lobbyists instead of the people.

In a variety of ways it can be shown that the election last fall was far more concerned with Congress than with the presidency. If the Democratic caucus is any proof, Congress knows that there is a chance for constructive leadership, reversing the recent tradition which has made the House the stronghold of reaction.

This Columnist Business

By PAUL GALLICO

The fine journalistic art of writing a column, it seems to me, is going to pot. Used to be in the old days you were safe in saying to a fellow, "Okay, if you think it's so easy to write a column let's see you go ahead and do one." Can't any more, it's more than even chance that he will.

Anybody can set up as a column writer today. All you need is plenty of gail, a pitch and some dough to get started. You can buy your way into any paper you want. Know who foots the bill? Your Uncle Samuel. This is a very good one, don't you think?

New when I was a young man, every kid breaking into the newspaper business wanted to be a columnist of some sort, including me, but it was very tough going in those days. Before he would even give you so much as a by-line on a story, the publisher would use up a couple of quarts of your blood, or maybe take off your left leg just below the hip.

You would have worked in pretty nearly every department of the paper including writing subbs, jokes, editorial fillers and a lot of anonymous stuff before they'd ever let you near the kind of thing that might eventually work up to a daily signed, individual turret of sports comment, jokes, poetry, news commentary, philosophy or wisecracks.

Achieving First By-Line

Sometimes you could get there faster but more painfully. I had to get myself tagged on the chops by no one less than William Harrison Dempsey to achieve my first by-line in the N. Y. Daily News, a quarter of a century ago, and thereafter a sports column. But there were plenty of guys who grew old and gray in the business before they achieved that precious chunk of double or single column down the outside or center of the page with their picture at the masthead and the privilege of abandoning the weaseling old editorial "we" in exchange for the dashing and robust "I" where you really stuck your neck out.

But nowadays? Heck, anybody can write himself a column, and what's more, get it printed. For free? Wanna know how it's done? Sure, I'm telling all. It's no secret anyway. Just look into your paper and you can figure it out yourself.

Let's say you've got an urge to write yourself a column and see it in print. What's your pitch? Gotta have a pitch, see. Oh, come now, everybody's got some sort of a pitch. Here, for instance, in one of the rags in our city is a merchant. Runs what he calls a new type department store in midtown. That's his pitch.

So the guy who operates it has an itch to do a column. What does he need? An old Joe Miller Joke Book, a couple of ghosts, or maybe if it's bad enough he could be writing it himself, a typewriter and some paper and he is in business as a practicing columnist—overnight.

"Advertisement"

Sure, it's printed under those two little words, "Advertisement—Advertisement", so everybody knows that what's in the column mixed up with the old jokes and the name-dropping—you know. Joe Choke, the famous crooner, stopped in and bought himself a new beagle-iron at our shop" sort of thing—is just a shill for the goods emporium.

But it's a column, isn't it, with the author's picture at the top of it and fancy typography, even if the guy paid for it at advertising rates? And who paid for it? At the end of the year it comes off his income tax. Advertising is legitimate business expense. So you see your name like in the paper along with your picture. You can write as bad as you like; in the nobody can say anything to you because you're paying for it and in the long run it doesn't cost you a cent. Okay, now go ahead and start your column and see if I care.

What am I getting hot under the necktie about? Look, Joe, you're an editor. Space is tight. Which column do you throw out of the paper, the Gallico's, for which you are paying him, or the one for which the author is paying you? Attaboy. You catch on fast. It's a fight for life, boys.

State Police Say:

Here is something to remember about the rights of the pedestrian. A person on foot who has started to cross the street with the green light has the right to continue to a point of safety before the driver starts up, even though the light has changed after the pedestrian stepped from the curb. Drivers turning right or left on a green light must yield the right of way to pedestrians crossing on the same signal. Give the pedestrian a brake.

LESS "SUPPORT"

The Department of Agriculture announces—after election—that it will cut the "support" of potatoes to sixty per cent of parity instead of the ninety per cent heretofore prevailing.

This "support" buying, it will be remembered, forced the department a year or two ago to sprinkle a mountain of accumulated tubers with kerosene and burn them. This year the "support" plan has cost taxpayers more than a hundred millions of dollars—and housewives have kept on paying top prices while potatoes were practically given away to alcohol manufacturers or used for animal food.

Miserable Handling

That is a miserable way of handling a very useful article of food. Potatoes are on nearly every householder's table, or nearly every householder. They are not limited to those of Irish parentage and they are served in various ways—fried, mashed, boiled and scalloped, to mention a few. They form a component part of a great many salads. They may be considered as necessary and to think of the thousands of bushels of potatoes that have been thrown away on account of the action on the part of the Agriculture Department constitutes a major crime committed by these government officials.

The Department Agriculture has probably been the most reckless of government departments in its expenditures made by this government, but if the department sticks to its statement, we may witness the first crack in high prices due to federal "support".

Some Expenditures Merely Bookkeeping But Help Make Impressive Total

OTHER EVENTS IN COURT HOUSE

In the year 1948 the County of Lawrence expended $953,038.04, according to a recapitulation made by County Controller Andrew M. Dodds.

While this total is not all money received from taxes and expended for general or special purposes the total actually expended for general county purposes is higher than usual.

Out of the general fund, from which is paid the general expenses of the county, there was expended $535,239.81. From the institutional fund, which pays for indigents, county home, outdoor relief and the like, was spent $102,203.26.

From the liquid fuels tax fund, out of which is paid principal and interest on bonds, bridge repairs, etc., was spent $31,750.39. These amounts spent for definite purposes and for which taxes were levied.

The sales of property accounted for $50,520.64. The suspense fund, which is where deposits upon contracts are put, spent or returned $10,022.70. A total of $8,590.92 was put into the sinking fund. This will later be expended for principal payment and interest upon bonds. From the trust or rent fund, $31,245.55 was given to the various municipal sub-divisions. Delinquent taxes in the amount of $83,475.07 were returned to the municipal sub-divisions.

FEE INCREASES
Although the number of instruments recorded in 1948 declined from 1947, the amount of fees collected showed an increase due to an amendment in the state law. Register and Recorder Orville Potter said today the total instruments recorded in 1948 totaled 6,052 as against 7,083 in 1947. The county fees collected in 1948 totaled $23,153.50 as against $22,375.70 in 1947. State fees in 1948 were $3,260.14 as against $3,767.03.

In 1948 there were 367 letters of administration or letters testamentary issued as against 371 in 1947.

Smith Hopes That Truman Accepts His Resignation

Ambassador To Russia Visits Pittsburgh: Receives Honorary Degree

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Gen. Walter Bedell Smith hoped today that President Truman would accept his resignation as U. S. ambassador to Russia.

In Pittsburgh Monday the 53-year-old former chief of staff of the Allied armies in Europe said he is homesick for America after seven years abroad.

At a press conference—prior to accepting the honorary doctor of law degree from Duquesne university, Smith said he would revert to his status as an Army lieutenant general if the President accepts the resignation.

He warned Pittsburghers that "we must look forward to living in a state of tension for some time." The general said:

"We are engaged in an intensive struggle for men's minds which began before the actual fighting stopped."

Smith told interviewers that he didn't think Russia had the atom bomb. "But," he cautioned, "we cannot afford to let ourselves be lulled into a false sense of security."

He said there has been a lack of hostility in his relations with the Russians even though there was, occasionally, a lack of cordiality.

Smith claimed the arrest of Hungarian Cardinal Mindszenty on conspiracy charges was "abhorrent and most deplorable."

JOBS UPON A TIME

ZACHARY SCOTT'S ancestors settled in Fredericksburg, Va., in 1694, but Zach was born in Austin, Tex. When he was 19, he signed on a tramp steamer bound for India. In London, England, Scott tried the stage then came home to wed his best girl, Elaine Anderson. Zachary was appearing on Broadway in These Endearing Young Charms, and was scarcely through the second act when movie-maker Jack Warner, watching the play, signed him for a screen role. This was in 1944.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., is the birthplace of Franchot Tone, suave motion picture actor. His late father was president of the Carborundum company. Franchot attended Cornell university, and taught languages there, but gave it up for an acting career. When he appeared with Katharine Cornell in Age of Innocence his family became reconciled to his career. Tone was originally a Group Theater star. He made his screen debut in The Wisest Sex in 1931. Tone is married to Jean Wallace. They have two children.

The lieutenant reminded applicants of draft age that the one year and the 21-month type enlistments both entail additional service in reserve components of six and five years respectively, before all obligation under the Selective Service Act is discharged. He also emphasized the fact that the regular three-year enlistment, which is available to all applicants, automatically discharges any obligation and no further reserve duty is required.

Lt. Sabol added that complete details on any type of enlistment may be obtained at the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting main station in Room 400 Frew Building or Room 202 Post Office Building.

Local Air Corps Veteran Re-Enlists
Sgt. Charles Shaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Shaffer of R. D. 5, has re-enlisted in the U. S. Air Forces for a three-year period.

Sgt. Shaffer, with his wife and two sons, Martin and Rodney, recently spent a few weeks at the home of his parents while on delay en route from Memphis, Tenn., to his new assignment as head of the fire station at McDill field in Tampa, Fla.

The local veteran has completed more than six years of duty in the air forces.

Plan To Collect Delinquent Tax
Following a conference between council and City Tax Collector and Treasurer B. N. Hanlon yesterday it was decided to proceed with the collection of delinquent occupational taxes. If arrest is necessary, arrest it will be, according to Mayor John F. Haven. The deputy delinquent tax collector will be named by agreement between council and Mr. Hanlon.

If arrest is necessary it will cost the delinquent the additional sum of money in aldermanic costs, according to Mayor Haven.

Dispute Develops On Whether Tragedy Plane Was Cleared For Flight

SEATTLE, Jan. 2.—(INS)—A dispute developed today over whether the chartered airplane which carried 11 Yale University students and three crew members to their death at Seattle was cleared for takeoff.

Attorneys for the Leland Charter Company, operators of the ill-fated DC-3, claimed that CAA records show the pilot was cleared after waiting a half hour. It was the first major air disaster of the new year.

But regional CAA director R. D. Bedinger declared the pilot had taken off Sunday night from Boeing field against orders from the control tower. Bedinger did not comment on the lawyer's claims.

Seek Clue To Tragedy

Meanwhile, Federal officials traced through the ashes of the twin-engine plane for a clue to the Nation's first major air tragedy of 1949.

They sought to learn whether the crew was fighting mechanical failure in the big ship at the start of its trip to New Haven, Conn., with 24 Yale University students aboard.

Eleven of the Eli undergraduates were sons of prominent Oregon and Washington families and were on their way back to the University after spending the Christmas holidays at home.

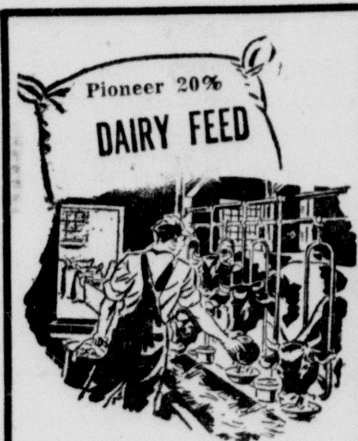

Bedinger said the visibility at the time of the takeoff was a quarter of a mile. He pointed out that CAA minimums are a mile visibility and added that all other planes were obeying the order against leaving the field.

UNIVERSAL - RUNDLE COMPANIES IN MERGER

550 are employed, a plant at Camden, N. J., where 250 are employed and one at Redlands, Calif., where 270 are employed. The Rundle company has a plant in Milwaukee, Wis., where 600 are employed and one in Camden, N. J., where 350 are employed. The total employed personnel of the new company will be well over 2000.

W. Keith McAfee of Redlands, Calif., board chairman of Universal, will be the chairman of the new company. Other officers will be H. J. Held of Rundle, vice president; Stanley S. Backner of Rundle, George E. Crawford of Universal, and Ray G. Caruthers of Universal, vice presidents, and G. Ward Whittaker of Universal, secretary and treasurer.

To Make Full Line

In announcing the merger, Mr. McAfee stated: "The merger serves to complement the production of each of the two companies, and makes them part of a five-plant coast-to-coast organization. The new company will produce a full line of bathroom equipment, including lavatories, bathtubs, closet combinations, kitchen sinks and related items. No change in sales policy or distribution is contemplated. Universal-Rundle has developed merchandising plans in keeping with this new full line through established trade channels."

The Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company was founded in 1901 by C. J. Kirk and a group of associates, and was one of the first plants to make vitreous china ware west of the Alleghenies. Six years after its founding, the company perfected and patented the "unit-cast" method of making vitreous plumbing fixtures, thus eliminating the many-piece units previously pressed by hand in the typical closet bowl fixture, and was first to develop to full scale production and modern high-fired process.

Other "firsts" for the company are the use of colored vitreous china for bathroom fixtures, and the rim-jet principle of quieter and more positive flushing.

In 1939 Universal introduced into the industry a modern straight-line production system of manufacture which greatly speeded up the output of fixtures. In 1941 it put the vitreous china kitchen sink back on the market. In 1943, when iron was in short supply, the company was the first to produce a bathtub of non-critical vitreous china.

Improved Methods

Since the war Universal has expanded, changed many of its production methods, and increased its output. New straight-away conveyors were installed with mechanized aids to eliminate manual labor previously necessary in the manufacture of bowls. Sink and tank chain conveyers introduced which made possible the complete drying of the bulk of production in 30 hours instead of the 72 to 100 previously needed. At the Camden plant, kiln production was increased by about 20 per cent. When the Redlands plant was built in 1946, Universal became one of the first manufacturers of vitreous china ware to have coast-to-coast production facilities. A completely new method of batching was developed at this new plant, and all production operations were mechanized.

The Rundle Manufacturing company was founded in Milwaukee in 1900 under the name of the Sanitary Enameling company. In 1902 the name was changed to the one it now bears, when four members of the Rundle family bought into the company. The Rundle interests were purchased in 1913 by R. T. Hazelwood and Henry Held, father of H. J. Held, president of Rundle and vice-president of the new corporation.

Specializing in the production of enameled cast iron plumbing fixtures, Rundle has been an important factor in the development of that industry. In 1911 it was the first to produce successfully the one-piece wall hung sink. In 1920 it became the first to use a Sand-slinger in producing bathtubs, thus making the mechanization of bathtub production possible. Rundle's chemical laboratory for control was one of the first in the industry.

State Capitol

Budget Address On January 17

Governor Duff To Detail Financial Program For State In Budget Plan

OTHER NEWS OF STATE CAPITAL

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Gov. James H. Duff's opening address to lawmakers during the opening session of the 138th meeting of the General Assembly will be in keeping with what he calls his "progressive program" for Pennsylvania. The most important news of the opening weeks will be contained in his budget address to assemblymen which he will make after they return to the state capital January 17. . . . In it he will detail his financial blueprint which he recommends to the Assembly for adoption for the biennium beginning June 1. . . . He undoubtedly will oppose a sales or a flat income tax but is committed to urging a two-cent increase in the state's four cents a gallon gasoline levy. . . . Duff told newsmen he was not aware of any opposition within his party to his program but many lawmakers visiting the capital prior to the opening session January 4 indicated they were violently opposed to increasing the gas tax. . . .

The regular platoon of capital correspondents on duty at the capitol between sessions will be augmented by reporters from most of Pennsylvania's major cities. . . . Thousands of words are filed each day from the state capital news room by press association reporters and by Western Union by newsmen representing papers in such towns as Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Scranton and Chester. . . . Dean of them all will be Charles G. Miller, of the Harrisburg Evening News, who has covered the state capitol and each special and regular session of the Assembly for more than three decades.

Rep. Francis Worley (R) of Adams wants to amend the House rules to put lawmakers on what he considers a business basis. . . . Worley, who seeks each session to outlaw Daylight Saving Time throughout the state, wants legislators to do business daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. with an hour off for lunch except on the opening day of each week when both houses would forego the morning session. . . . Evening sessions would be held only between 6 p. m. and 9 p. m. . . . Worley explains that the long sessions running close to midnight and sometimes later during the closing weeks of each session "are too exhausting" . . . Worley won fame during the 1947 session as being the only member of the General Assembly to stand up on the floor of the House, filled with rooves of judges interested in legislation, boosting their salaries, and cast his lone vote against the judicial salary raiser.

Speculation is rampant on when the 138th session will adjourn since die literally "without day" or finally. . . . Governor Duff has intimated he sees no reason for a long session. . . . Neither has many another governor. . . . But when the time rolls around it is late in the spring. . . . This year the sentiment among representative lawmakers indicate they have little hope of adjourning before mid-May and possibly later.

Employees of the House and Senate employed only for the session are paid on a per diem basis throughout the session whether the Assembly meets or not. . . . Thus, if the legislature meets but three days they are paid for a full week. . . . Lawmakers receive $3,000 for the biennium plus individual $100 a month expense allowances, mileage and stamps.

It is believed that ancient Oriental people learned to use early time to make useful implements out of meteorites. The tradition that of swords of great Chinese, Persian and northern European warriors were "heaven-sent" indicates they were meteorites which fell from the skies. Their unusually keen blades were probably due to the toughening effect of nickel in the iron, as nickel and iron frequently occur together in metallic meteorites.

Respecting age as they do, the Chinese rarely use turtles for food, even in the midst of a famine.

Maine's Woman Senator Would Serve All Women

By MARTHA KEARNEY

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Margaret Chase Smith, the only woman senator in the new Congress, declared herself ready to serve as unofficial senator-at-large for all the women of the United States.

Shortly after being sworn in at the capitol, Sen. Smith (R, Maine), told a luncheon of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs that she considers herself "a voice of America's women" as well as junior senator from Maine.

The gray-haired, blue-eyed veteran congresswoman—who said that she was elected in spite of being a woman—pledged herself to fight for the objectives of the nation's women in the Senate and on committee.

World Peace Aim

She told the group that American women, as well as American men, are primarily interested in world peace and domestic security. Furthermore, she said, American women want "the highest possible standard of living at the lowest possible cost for the greatest number of Americans first—and then the rest of the world."

Mrs. Smith interpreted this as a specific demand for moderately-priced homes and apartments with no restrictions against babies and dogs; fair prices for good food; and a respectable salary scale for competent teachers.

"These are not unreasonable demands. They are not unnecessary drains on the taxpayers. They are sound investments in the future of America. And after all these are the desires of the taxpayers themselves—for the bulk of our taxpayers are mothers and fathers."

"And as the only woman United States senator, I pledge myself in full support of these objectives of the women—not just because they are objectives of the women but because they are objectives upon which we must lay the foundation of America's future."

Sen. Smith continued:

"Senator-at-Large"

"I have been repeatedly warned that while officially I will be the junior senator from Maine, unofficially I will be the senator-at-large for women all over the nation."

"While my first duty is to the people of Maine, I will gladly accept the unofficial responsibility of being senator-at-large for America's women to the extent that the women desire."

"This would mean that I should hold myself ready to be a voice of America's women on the floor of the Senate and in committees."

She said that her victory is a victory for all women as a symbol of "The growing realization that the ability and proved performance, rather than sex, are the best standards for political selection as they seek to attain."

Panther Club To Have Anniversary

Attorney Charles J. Margiotti To Give Address At Ninth Dinner-Dance On January 16

Rapidly coming to a conclusion are the plans for the Panther's club ninth annual dinner dance, scheduled for Sunday evening, January 16, at The Castleton.

Coming here as honored guest of the occasion is the nationally known Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who will deliver the principal address of the evening. Alderman B. J. Biondi is the toastmaster of the evening. The anniversary will start with a full course chicken dinner at 6 p. m., to be followed by an entertaining floor show. Panther club members will invite their wives and guests to attend this event, and they are planning to make it one of the most successful of social gatherings. Dress will be informal. A special invitation has been extended to the presidents of the various civic and social organizations, and indications point to a record-breaking crowd planning to attend.

Dancing will start immediately after the program, and an out-of-town orchestra has been engaged for the evening.

D. E. Cioffi and F. A. Macchia are the co-general chairmen and together with their committee they are completing the arrangements: A. C. Ricciardi, Joseph A. Clavelli, Joseph J. Punio, Nicholas Casalandra, Joseph Panella, Louis G. Gaspare, Michael Manto, Daniel DeCarlo, Angelo Colella, John Fuleno and William J. Russo.

An estimated 145,000 Mexicans or persons of Mexican descent are residents of Arizona.

Girl Scout Leaders Assemble For Party

Miss Emily Rice, commissioner, was a special guest, when the Girl Scout leaders of New Castle enjoyed a party in a local tea room with Mrs. David Evans and Mrs. David R. Lewis responsible for arrangements. Games were under supervision of Mrs. George Lewis and Miss Laura Snider, while Miss Alice Welther and Mrs. Russell Cartwright were in charge of decorations and favors.

Mrs. David Heaton, Mrs. Carl McIntrot, Mrs. Donald Kite, Mrs. Arthur Redman, Mrs. Ralph McCormick, Mrs. Jack Carroll, Mrs. C. Wayne Wagner, Mrs. William Boyle, Mrs. Paul Spear, Mrs. William Walters, Mrs. James Matthews and Mrs. David Evans were invested as leaders at a service, which featured the evening.

Mrs. C. C. McDermott presided at a brief business session, when it was announced that troop 19, under the leadership of Miss Marie Dutkiewicz, has sent a large sum of money and a large amount of clothing to the people of Poland. The same troop is also contributing to the support of two orphanages in that country.

Girl Scouts of New Castle made 725 Christmas favors for the Jameson Memorial and New Castle hospitals, Margaret Henry home, Almiria home, City Rescue Mission, Lawrence county home and Salvation Army.

Rev. A. C. Howe Heard By Rotary

Pastor Of Epworth Methodist Church Shows Ways To Security

BRINGS NEW YEAR MESSAGE TO CLUB

In a special New Year message brought to members of the New Castle Rotary club, Rev. A. C. Howe urged members of the club to look forward to the coming year with hope and optimism and to take advantage of the past to plan a better future. His talk was delivered at the noon luncheon meeting in The Castleton Monday.

Man, he stated, is geared to produce economical and political ends. He gets strapped to the wheel which is part of that system and is whirled about until he is dizzy. One can lose himself in this system or he can be an individual and pick his way through the hurdles which face him, he stated. "The man of 1949 will be you," he stated, "and not Harry Truman. You should sit down and take stock of yourself. Persistence and courage will be needed or you will have no achievement worthwhile." The past is the soil out of which the present grows. If you are working today to building for the future then you are certain to accomplish something worthwhile. In conclusion, he stated that one should resolve daily to proceed by the virtues of right and conscientious living, which have stood the tests of time. By so doing one is guaranteed by the very universe itself to live a useful worthwhile life.

Strickler Stresses Legislative Needs

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Lieut. Gov. Daniel B. Strickler today told the opening session of the 1949 General Assembly that it must enact a "simple, fair and convincing" legislative program.

He told lawmakers that the "needs and demands of the people for propositions of law are many and some are baffling." "We must neither yield to the tendency to haul down the flag and express defeatism, nor to lunge into matters regardless," he said. "We must yield to the necessity of making a calculating analysis and ally fears."

"The legislative program must not only be interesting enough to attract attention but it must be simple, fair and convincing to get cooperation."

Urges Support Of 'March Of Dimes'

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Gov. James H. Duff today urged Pennsylvanians to give their wholehearted support to the 1949 "March of Dimes" campaign.

Duff pointed out that the fight against infantile paralysis "must be uninterrupted if success in accomplishing prevention and cure is to be attained."

"The March of Dimes is unique among fund-raising drives because through our contributions we can help to accomplish so much with so little," Duff said.

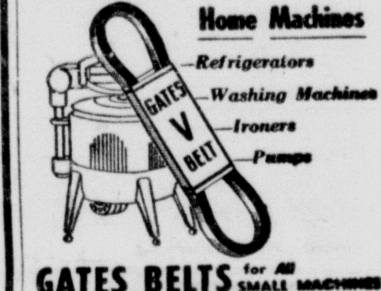

"It deserves the support of all who are interested in their fellow men, and who are eager to help make their community, their state, and their nation a better and healthier place to live," he said.

AUNT SOPHRONY ANSWERS JUNIOR'S 4,779TH QUESTION

Dutch Sentence American Airmen

BATAVIA, Jan. 4.—(INS)—A Dutch court sentenced three U. S. fliers to prison terms today for allegedly flying arms and ammunition to the Indonesian Republicans.

The court, meeting in Tanjongpinang, in the Rho archipelago, declared that the Republicans did not constitute an independent government, and that the fliers violated Dutch law in ferrying the munitions.

It imposed a sentence of four years in prison on Albert Onstott of Yuba City, Calif., three years on Connie Seigrist of Gore, Okla., and 18 months on William Hallam of Portland, Ore.

The accused fliers had been held for four months while the charges were pending and the court ruled that the time will be deducted from their sentences.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Nunnally Johnson, an expert on mermaids ever since he produced "Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid," says he is working on a new mermaid story that will make all the old ones seem tame by comparison. "The bottom half of a mermaid," explains Nunnally, "I wonder what star's looks gave him that idea!"

You probably heard about the Scotchman who firmly declined an invitation to meet a delectable mermaid. "Positively no," he thundered. "Too much female to eat and too much fish to make love to!"

Incidentally, don't scoff at the possibility that mermaids actually exist. Remember Albert Einstein's comment: "Imagination is more important than knowledge."

A banker's young son was an inveterate liar, and the family was trying every expedient to reform him.

"Son," the banker proposed one evening, "if you can tell me a lie without a seconds thought I'll give you fifty cents."

"Fifty cents nothing," declared the boy. "You just said a dollar."

Propose Elevating Health Secretary To Major Position

Three-State Wide Organizations Propose Change In State Health System

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Three state-wide organizations today announced they seek changes in the health department "to promote better public health and mental health."

Proposals to elevate the health secretary to a major cabinet position, and to transfer the bureau of mental health from the welfare department to the health department were presented to the governor by the State Medical society, the Pennsylvania Psychiatric society and the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania.

"We urge these changes in order to promote better public health and better mental health in Pennsylvania," said Dr. Gilson C. Engel of Philadelphia, president of the medical society.

"We believe the department of health should be strengthened and improved and that the secretary of health should be made a major cabinet official," he added.

Enormous Cost
The organizations estimated operation of the state's mental health system would cost $80,000,000 for two years. That sum would take care of hospital operation, clinics, mental health education, research and training, and preventive hygiene, it was pointed out.

The three agencies said that another $80,000,000 was needed to build additional modern hospital facilities.

Engel announced that the organizations also urged early establishment of a psychiatric institute in Philadelphia to work closely with medical schools, and the appointment of a deputy with a medical doctorate and psychiatric experience to direct the bureau of mental health at a salary of $10,000 a year. The recommendations were presented to the governor by Engel, Dr. T. A. Rutherford, president of the psychiatric society, and Everett S. Elwood, president of the Public Charities Association.

Explosion Wrecks Chemical Plant

Blast Occurs At Plant In Midland, Mich.; Damage Is Surveyed

MIDLAND, Mich., Jan. 4.—(INS)—Dow Chemical company officials surveyed the wreckage of the firm's phenyl hydrazine plant today to determine the extent of damages caused by an explosion which rocked the city of Midland last night.

Officials refused to comment on the extent of the fire which followed the explosion but they reported that it followed the explosion of a still in the plant.

Midland firemen joined the Dow company's private fire department in battling flames which roared for more than an hour. A fire truck and crew from Bay City also responded to a call for assistance.

Frank Feighner Jr., an Army private on leave from Chanute field, Ill., reported he was driving by the Dow plant at the time of the explosion. He said flames shot into the air "lighting up the sky like a Christmas tree" and the blast followed.

Five workmen inside the plant made their escape through an adjoining building.

English Visitors Enjoy Stay Here

Two engineers from England, representing private industry in Britain, have just concluded a most successful visit in this country with most of their time spent in New Castle studying industrial methods and outlook and have left for New York to sail for their country.

The men, F. E. Maer, No. 2 Astons road, Northwood, Middlesex, England, and W. J. Anderson, 42 Ealing Park Mansions, South Ealing road, London W5, England, were delighted at the hospitality afforded them both in the city homes where they visited and in the plants in which they were privileged to visit. Our friendliness and generosity, they stated, has made their visit a very enjoyable one and useful as well.

Realizing the impossibility of thanking each one personally for the kindness afforded, they have publicly expressed their gratitude. The men sail January 15 on the Caronia, a new ship, the largest built since the end of the war.

no "deal" to curtail the power of conference to comment on reports that in return for GOP support to change the House rules, administration leaders agreed to take no action affecting the Un-Ameri-

He replied:
"There was no trading or trafficking as far as I was concerned.
The administration downtown didn't speak to me about it."

"There's been no trading on committees here. I don't trade on public business. It wasn't necessary."

Three Children Burn To Death Near Easton, Pa.

EASTON, Pa., Jan. 4.—(INS).—An investigation was slated today into the cause of a fire in which three babies were burned to death in a small house south of Easton despite rescue efforts by their mother.

The victims, Sylvia, three; Paul, 19 months and Nancy, nine months, were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rominshan, tenant farmers on the farm of Louis Jaffe located about 14 miles south of Easton in upper Bucks county.

Mother Burned
The Rominshans and their three other children were away from the home when the blaze broke out yesterday. The mother was making a telephone call in a house 75 yards away. She suffered face, hand and leg burns in a vain rescue attempt.

Damage to farm equipment which was stored on the first floor of the two-story structure was estimated at $15,000. The equipment belonged to Mr. Jaffe.

The Rominshans were unable to explain how the fire started. Mrs. Rominshan said it was possible that one of the children might have tried to stuff paper into the coal stove.

USED CAR DEALER IN TROUBLE
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4.—(INS).—Top Dollar Johnny Levitske of Liberty, Pa., who often boasted he could pay more for a used car than any other dealer in the district, was having trouble with Uncle Sam today.

Stanley Granger, collector of internal revenue for the western district of Pennsylvania, filed a $540,520.11 tax lien on Levitske yesterday. The claim covers a period from 1944 to 1947. Granger also took legal steps to attach Levitske's autos, bank account and other property.
